

WVC IS PROUD TO PRESENT DR. W. BRUCE WREN FOOD ANIMAL INCENTIVE AWARD

Recognizing five recent graduates from veterinary colleges or schools

THE AWARD IS DESIGNED TO

- Promote WVC's goal of educating new graduates to maintain their interest in food animal clinical practice or other related careers, such as food animal clinical skills instruction or applied clinical research.
- Showcase the educational enrichment opportunities offered by WVC.

AWARD

Recipients receive a $1,000 stipend, complimentary registration, lodging, airfare, meals, and a $525 travel allowance to attend the WVC 92nd Annual Conference in Las Vegas, Nevada on February 16-19, 2020.

HOW TO APPLY

- Register here for an account starting September 2, 2019.
- Complete the application form.
- Provide resume and a brief description of your current veterinary activities.
- Describe your specific area(s) of interest in food animal medicine and production. (500 words maximum)
- Describe your career goals and objectives. How might this award help you achieve your plans? (500 words maximum)
- Letters of recommendation from two veterinary mentors are requested.

REQUIREMENTS

- Graduation from an AVMA-accredited veterinary college.
- Currently enrolled in an advanced training program from an AVMA-accredited school (internship, residency or related graduate program) directly related to food or fiber production related to beef, dairy or small ruminant.
- Award criteria emphasizes applied knowledge to further food animal veterinary medicine in the following order.
 1. Clinical Practice
 2. Clinical Skills Educational Instruction
 3. Clinical & Applied Research
- Recipients must be able to attend the WVC 92nd Annual Conference in Las Vegas, Nevada to receive the award.

IMPORTANT DATES

- Begin applying online – September 2, 2019
- Applications are due – October 14, 2019
- Recipients will be announced – November 12, 2019
- WVC Annual Conference – February 16-19, 2020

If you have any questions please contact
Ms. Dawn Casagrande-Terry at dct@wvc.org or call direct at 702.443.9246.