WVC Gets Ready for 92nd Annual Conference in Las Vegas, February 16–19, 2020

Themed “Discover Your Why,” the 92nd Annual Conference promises to be the most comprehensive veterinary gathering of the year.

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA (January 31, 2020)—WVC is less than a month away from the 92nd Annual Conference at Mandalay Bay Convention Center in Las Vegas, Nevada, on February 16-19, 2020. Over four days, the organization anticipates over 15,000 veterinary professionals will select from hundreds of continuing education (CE) hours, have an opportunity to meet with over 500 exhibitors, and attend live events designed to inspire and entertain.

For 92 years, WVC has been providing practical, high-quality CE for the veterinary community through a variety of learning formats such as hands-on labs, workshops, symposia, seminars, and lectures. Topic areas include small animal, equine, food animal, avian and exotics, and practice management, with education tracks designed specifically for veterinarians, veterinary technicians, and practice managers.

Participants will enjoy star-studded entertainment featuring a Merck Animal Health–sponsored concert by award-winning country music singer Brett Eldredge; a comedy night sponsored by Hill’s Pet Nutrition with Tammy Pescatelli and former host of “The View” Sherri Shepherd; and an inspirational message from repeat Olympic gold medalist, 7 Grand Slam title winner, and tennis star Venus Williams. Coming back in 2020, Party for a Purpose is a night dedicated to fun and fundraising with the Boogie Knights at the House of Blues in support of Ahimsa House.

In the Exhibit Hall, participants are able to interact with more than 500 amazing exhibitors on the show floor. New this year, coffee breaks in the Exhibit Hall feature complimentary coffee stations for participants to regroup and recharge. They can also receive giveaways and take part in fun activities at WVC Central, take advantage of a professional photo booth, enjoy 20-minute Learning Lounge sessions, play the Vet Detective scavenger hunt, and explore all the other popular activities the Exhibit Hall has to offer.

“We are thrilled to once again welcome those from across the US and the globe to Las Vegas for the 2020 WVC Annual Conference,” says WVC CEO Andrea Davis. “The start of a new decade is an exciting time to show the veterinary community that WVC continues to grow and get better, and during the conference we’re planning on sharing how we plan to take WVC into the future. From the excellent continuing education and the Exhibit Hall, to the entertainment and networking events, we can’t wait for participants to experience this 92nd Annual Conference.”
