WVC Acquires New Building and Expands Educational Program

With the addition of this state-of-the-art facility, WVC looks forward to significantly increasing the number of courses and events available for both veterinary and human medical professionals.

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA (November 1, 2019)—WVC, a leading provider of veterinary and medical continuing education, announces the recent acquisition of the building formerly known as the Enclave in Las Vegas, Nevada. This customizable 71,000-square-foot space allows WVC to expand its educational programming, becoming even more of a one-stop shop in continuing education for all veterinary and human health professionals.

In 2020, WVC plans to host more than 70 veterinary courses and over 100 human health events between both the new facility and the renowned Oquendo Center. After a period of construction and renovation, the new facility will be available in June 2020.

“WVC is excited to expand our footprint with a second facility,” says WVC’s Chief Operating Officer Aubrey Arreola, CMP. “This expansion will allow us to better serve the medical community now and into the future. Our commitment to excellence and quality education will continue to be our focus as we grow.”

WVC anticipates receiving accreditation from the ACCME in November 2020, becoming a provider of both veterinary and human medical continuing education for the first time in WVC history.
